She's a lot of fun to work with, so I'm sure we'll be seeing more of her here. She's a star on several of the top glamour sites, and I've wanted to shoot her ever since I first saw one of her sets on Met-art. In some cases I remove or neutralize the warm tone, but in Layla's case I thought it added to her rather golden look, so I kept the adjustments to a minimum. Even the little pink flowers on her tummy appear to have been there since birth.

There are a couple dozen of my favorites in today's update.

Now here she is in our own Private Archive.

I'm shooting in Prague with the London Studio Group, and won't have a chance to post a new gallery until my return.

com, and at KenMarcus.

The studio floor is composed of beautiful old lacquered boards, which give off a warm reddish-yellow glow.

I liked her immediately, but didn't have much time to work with her the first day, so I asked her to come back.

Again, this session comes from some of my recent work with the London Studio Group, whose site will be up and running soon, with more photos of some of these models, plus videos.

These are some of my favorites after another week's worth of shooting for the London Studio Group.

I told her she reminded me of a young Angelica Houston, only prettier.

Some of these are brand new images, and all are in a larger size than the previous version.

, as well as to some online galleries.

In some of the shots, you can see another model, Viki, wearing a winter coat in the background - although I doubt you'll feel cold looking at most of these images.

As you'll see, she has an impish little smile that says she's having just as much fun as you'll have looking at her.

It was very cramped and hot, but we managed to come away with what I think are some really great images.

As for her name, well I have no idea, except she did say her father was from Egypt.

The summer heat was very intense, especially in the upper attic bedroom we were using for this shoot.

I've left in a number of shots one might normally reject - awkward stances, funny expressions - since I believe, in this case, those things add to the eroticism of the series.

I shot seven different models in this room, and although you may get tired of the furniture, I don't think anyone will be bored with the photos.

I shot several studio sessions with Heather, using some great lingerie from her personal collection.

My session with Mia and Nikita, however, is an exception.

During our recent foray into Normandy with the LSG crew, I had the chance to shoot a couple of the Czech fashion models stripping down to their lovely skin outside behind the chateau.

Somehow we managed to make it work out.

As some of you have commented, these sessions I've shot in Prague and London are becoming quite sexual.

I'm posting about half of the shots here, but LSG will have the full group, including an even more explicit series, for anyone who wants more.

I know some people will view this set of images and say "pornography"; others will see the same photos and say "Art"; and still others will say "how did you focus your camera like that?"

Thanks for your patience.

They've been great to work with, and the site looks like it will be "gangbusters" as they say in the UK.

Let me know if that sounds appealing, and I'll try to include some candid shots in future sessions.

I know they'll have a few movies of some of the recent models shown here on MoreyStudio, since I saw the film crews hard at work in Prague, and they plan to add new stuff every day.

We had her in the LSG studio for several hours, and nude for the first time on camera.

Sara is what I would call "handsome", in the same vein as Salma Hayek or a young Sophia Loren.

but we didn't really try very hard, since I knew she'd end up like this.

I asked her to pose in the same way she would for a lingerie ad, or for a fashion magazine spread, except without the clothes.
